A Mismatch Made in Muscle –Clean Western Culture Romance

This book is about a couple deeply, and madly in love, but their relationship defies every conventional maneuver. Jennifer is a female bodybuilder who loves auto mechanics, action movies, and being physically dominant. Douglas is a scientist who is a small and skinny man, who has a huge brain, but is otherwise a huge wimp. The two of them meet, fall deeply in love, and have a charming life together. They suddenly are hit with a major, emotional, and painful issue that threatens their marriage and livelihood.

They must find a way to cope and problem-solve, or else their marriage will be destroyed. One of them has got tons of muscle, one of them has tons of brains, but is that going to be enough?

A Faith Much-Damned –Clean Christian Romance

This story is about a young lady, Kayla, who lives next door to a rambunctious child, Stephen, who is always getting into trouble. He is lovable and sweet, but is always defiant and rebellious. He often disobeys his parents and does activities on his own will. He must be monitored every moment, to prevent major trouble and behavioral disasters.

The parents almost always keep track of him, but failed on one occasion. The 5-year-old snuck outside and was playing soccer in his front yard. He gave the ball a firm boot and it sailed into the street. Despite being warned many times not to chase the ball into the street, that’s exactly what he did.

He tragically ran right in front of a moving Chevy Tahoe, and met the front bumper. A frantic swerve from the driver came too late. Stephen, is now hospitalized and on life support.

The frantic parents, Stephen’s brother (Chuck), and Kayla all rush to the hospital to visit the boy. They share tears, hopes, prayers, and encouragements as they try to deal with this awful reality.

When Stephen is paralyzed and returns home, he needs much assistance and help doing many things. Enter Kayla, the loving Christian neighbor who always steps in to bring loving help to the family. She invests her time, money, and compassionate Christian love to help Stephen have a great life.

After meeting and interacting with Chuck, she slowly grows attracted to him and they start a relationship together. Over time, their attraction grows into full-force love and passion. They eventually marry and begin a life together. There is one problem though – Chuck later finds out he has terminal brain cancer, and won't live much longer.

Kayla looks at the paralyzed Stephen, the terminally ill husband, and thinks of her abusive childhood, and begins to question whether she wants to follow God, or even believes in Him. Can her faith and hope survive? Can she overcome these horrible series of events?
