The tales of a bipedal creature we commonly call bigfoot, sasquatch, or yeti today can be traced back through time and appears in documented records from ancient Mesopotamia up through the art of the Middle Ages and the Renaissance. There is even evidence of such a creature in some of the earliest rock art from Australia. Join noted folklorist and cryptozoologist Ronald L. Murphy, Jr. as he recounts his own entre into the hunt for bigfoot as a youth. From there he explores the evidence provided by historical sources of this elusive creature that was known through history as The Wildman.
